The Bell Family in America

THE BELL FAMILY IN AMERICA

Many pioneers bearing the name of Bell were in the provinces of New England as early as 1643, and also in New Jersey before 1680 and in Pennsylvania about 1682. To Virginia several of the name came direct from Scotland and settled in the middle and southwestern parts of that colony between 1642 and 1720. Most of these emigrants were from Edinburgh, Linlithgow, Jedburg, Paisley and Glasgow in Scotland; some from northern England and southern Ireland and others from the counties Londonderry and Antrim in northern Ireland.

In England, Scotland and Ireland the Bells were armor bearing. The heads of more than thirty families of the name received grants of arms, several of them as far back as the early part of the sixteenth century. That most of these families were derived from some common stock is shown by the fact that a common feature of their arms was three church bells and of their crests a hawk belled. Bell of Berkshire and Buckinghamshire had: arms,—sable, three church bells argent, two and one, and three estoiles or, one and two; crest,—a hawk with wings expanded argent, beaked and belled or, with a string flotant from the bells gules.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Matthew Bell was born in Kirk Connell, on the river Nith in the northwestern part of Dum-frishire, Scotland. He emigrated to the northern part of Ireland in the latter part of the seventeenth century and was in the city of Londonderry when that place was besieged in 1689. He had two sons, Matthew and John, and perhaps other children.

John Bell the youngest son of Matthew Bell of Scotland and Ireland was born in Ballymoney, county Antrim, province of Ulster, Ireland, in 1679, and married, about 1712, Elizabeth Todd, daughter of John and Rachel (Nelson) Todd, and sister of Andrew Todd; she was born about 1689. He came to America, as is supposed, in 1719, landed at Boston and spent some time in Andover, Mass., before he settled in Londonderry, N. H., in 1720. He held a number of town offices, and died July 8, 1743, "about sixty-four years of his age," as his tombstone says. He had nine children, of whom six left descendants.

He had four sons, the two elder of whom died unmarried; the others, Samuel and Ebenezer are supposed to have left children.
